NEW YORK (UPI)—The firm which plan to publish what they described as the authentic autobiography of billionaire Howard Hughes were ordered by a judge Thursday to show why publication should not be prevented.

The order was issued by Manhattan Supreme Court Justice Samuel M. Gold at the request of Rosemont Enterprises Inc., a Nevada-based corporation which says it has exclusive rights to "all biographical material on the 66-year-old recluse. Gold ordered McGraw-Hill, Time-Life Inc., the Dell Publishing Co. and author Clifford Irving to appear for a court hearing next Wednesday.

Although a man identified as Hughes said in a telephone interview with seven reporters last week that the book was not authentic, the companies and the author have insisted on its authenticity and said they plan to publish it.

McGraw-Hill plans to put out the hardcover edition of the book in late March. Time-Life pushed up the dates of its three-part serialization in Life Magazine to Feb. 11, 18 and 25. Dell has the paperback publishing rights.

In the telephone interview, the man identified as Hughes said Rosemont, formed in 1965, had exclusive rights to any authorized materials on his life.

Chester Davis, the lawyer who represented Rosemont (and who also is general counsel of the hub of the Hughes empire, the Hughes Tool Co.) submitted a copy of the contract he said Hughes had signed with Rosemont. The document said Rosemont had purchased, for $10, the rights to Hughes' autobiography.

Davis said he believed Irving's book was "an elaborate fraud and a carefully planned hoax."

After the hearing, McGraw-Hill and Time Inc. said in a statement: "We have not yet received any papers but we have complete confidence that our legal position is unassailable. Our attorneys will deal with the matter."

Davis said he did not know if Rosemont would publish a biography of Hughes. But, if it did, Davis said publication of the Irving book would make Rosemont's rights valueless.

In another development, Johnny Meyer, who was a personal aide of Hughes for 20 years, said he believed that checks which McGraw-Hill said Hughes had endorsed were not endorsed by Hughes. The checks were signed "H.R. Hughes."

Meyer, now an aide to Aristotle Onassis, said "They say the checks are proof of the authenticity of the autobiography, but they are just the opposite. He signed his name Howard Hughes or Howard R. Hughes on a sort of 50-50 basis, but he never, never signed H.R. Hughes."

The publishing firm, however, said experts have authenticated the signature.

"I think those guys have been had," Meyer said.

Next Two Trips to Moon... Valuable Data Expected

SPACE CENTER. Houston (UPI)—Geologists expect the final two Apollo expeditions this year to produce more scientific information about the moon than the volumes of data returned from the first four lunar landings.

"We're only halfway in our experimentation," Dr. William Muehlberger said at a meeting late Thursday winding up the third annual Lunar Science Conference.

Muehlberger, chief geologist for Apollo 16, said last summer's Apollo 13 moon flight matched the scientific output of Apollos 11, 12, and 14. "And we have two more coming, each of which has more extensive plans than Apollo 15."

Apollo 16 astronauts John W. Young, Thomas K. Mattingly and Charles M. Duke will take off April 16 from Cape Kennedy and explore a hilly region of the central lunar highlands for the first time.

Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and Harrison H. Schmitt, a geologist, will wind up the nation's lunar exploration program with the flight of Apollo 17 in December.

After spending 2½ years studying the moon from on-the-scene investigations, scientists said this week they finally are beginning to understand something about its makeup and evolution.

Geophysicists reported the study of vibrations penetrating deep into the moon shows it has a definite, layered crust extending about 40 miles deep. At the Ocean of Storms, where the measurements were made, the top layer is made up of iron and magnesium-rich lava rock overlying what apparently is aluminum and calcium-rich material that may represent the original lunar crust and much of the highlands.

Among the other important results presented at the lunar conference, scientists said orbital studies of the moon by X-ray and gamma radiation sensors confirmed that the highlands are as different from the flatlands chemically as they are in topography.

Author Claims Divorce Laws Discriminate Against Women

NEW YORK (AP) — Feminist author Betty Friedan says divorce laws should be changed to require equitable division of property when a marriage breaks up.

Contending that court settlements of the property question often discriminate against women, Mrs. Friedan said Thursday any new divorce reform measure "should make the division of property mandatory and not at the discretion of the judge."

"The divorce laws are made by men, tried by men and amended by men," she said. "All is left to the discretion of the judges, most of whom are men."

Mrs. Friedan spoke at a news conference that preceded hearing on a divorce bill newly filed by Assemblyman Albert H. Blumenthal, D-Manhattan.

Blumenthal said the bill had a "no-fault" provision and would empower state courts to award alimony and child support paid by either the husband or wife, depending on the particular divorce situation.

Under current state law, wives are not ordered to pay alimony. Also, fault is a factor; if the wife, for example, had committed adultery before the divorce, she is not entitled to alimony, regardless of any provocation.

Henry Foster, a New York University law professor who drafted the bill, defended the no-fault stipulation by saying: "As a realist, I suggest that neither a judge nor a psychiatrist may weigh or assess blame in the breakdown of a marriage."

On division of property the Blumenthal bill leaves the decision to the courts, but sets forth certain factors for consideration, such as duration of the marriage.

The proposed reform measure suggests that division assets acquired during long-term marriages be handled in a way similar to the dissolution of business partnerships.

Three officials of the National Organization of Women, a women's liberation group that Mrs. Friedan helped start, said they advocated more sweeping changes in divorce laws, including: —Legal recognition of marriage as an equal partnership.

—Compulsory payroll deductions, to assure that alimony payments were made promptly.

—Compulsory financial disclosure; and —Establishment of a financial investigation and enforcement bureau, to conduct pretrial inquiries, subpoena income records and enforce support orders.

The hearing was conducted by the committees on matrimonial law of the New York County Lawyers Association and the Association of the Bar of the City of New York.

Israelis Cross Border, Hit Guerrilla Bases

By United Press International

Israeli troops crossed the border into Lebanon early today to hit Arab guerrilla bases used as the jumping off point for attacks against Israeli civilian settlements. It was the second such Israeli attack this week.

A military spokesman in Tel Aviv said two buildings used as guerrilla staging areas were blown up in the village of Kasah, five miles north of the border. No Israeli casualties were reported.

The spokesman said the incidents were in retaliation for "continuing attacks from Lebanese territory against Israeli civilian settlements." Early Tuesday Israeli troops staged a similar attack against two guerrilla camps in Lebanon, killing at least 10 guerrillas while suffering two killed.

In Cairo, political sources said today that industry minister Aziz Sidky will take over as prime minister of Egypt from Mahmoud Fawzi in a cabinet reshuffle to be announced soon. The sources said the cabinet changes were part of President Anwar Sadat's announced plans to put the domestic front on war footing in preparation for resumed hostilities with Israel.

Political sources said the replacement of Fawzi—who would become joint vice president with Hussein El Shafei, was not because of policy differences but because of the need for a younger man to shoulder the heavier duties of the premiership at this critical stage. Fawzi is 71 and Sidky is 51.

The sources said the changes also may involve replacement of Mahmoud Riad as foreign minister. It will be the fifth cabinet reshuffle since Sadat succeeded the late president Gamal Abdel Nasser in September, 1970.

Sadat in a speech to the nation Thursday said that if the Indian-Pakistan war had not broken out Egypt would have gone to war with Israel last fall. He did not elaborate why the war on the Asian subcontinent deterred him.

In what he described as an "alarm signal" broadcast, Sadat said the next war will be a civilian war. "The next battle will not be a battle of armies but an overall battle that will involve every man in every part of the land. I tell the Israelis that the war will cover not only Egypt's lands but their lands as well."

Two Seriously Injured in Crash

By WALTER S. CLARK

WEST HURLEY — Two men were seriously injured at 11:05 p.m. Thursday when their cars collided head-on on Route 28 about one mile east of Route 375, according to Hurley State Police. Heavy fog blanketed the area during the night followed by a light snow and a drop in temperature that iced highways.

Other personal injury accidents were reported by Highland State Police and the sheriff's office.

The accident on Route 28 involved cars driven by Edward

J. Morris, 39, of this community, and Edward Tucker, 35, of Ontario Trailer Park, Kingston. Trooper Edward A. Zeboris reported the vehicles were traveling in opposite directions when the mishap occurred.

State Police said the accident is still under investigation and complete details of how the crash occurred were not known as the drivers could not be interviewed due to their injuries.

Tucker was removed from the scene of the collision to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance. He suffered a broken nose and fractures of the right elbow and right leg. His condition this morning was listed as serious.

Morris was rushed to Benedictine Hospital by the West Hurley First Aid and Rescue Squad. He suffered severe lacerations of the face and left eye and fractures of the right leg, left kneecap and ribs. A hospital spokesman today described Morris' condition as poor.

Another accident Thursday night was reported by the sheriff's office. Robert James Stephano, 26, of Walnut Creek, Calif., was injured when his car went out of control in dense fog and glanced off a curb before it slammed into a bridge railing on Colonel Chandler Drive (Route 587).

Deputy Sheriff John Tucey, who investigated with Deputy Angel Baez said Stephano received head injuries when he hit the steering wheel. He said he would see his own physician. His car was heavily damaged.

A two-car collision at 3:15 a.m. today on Route 299 in the Town of New Paltz involved vehicles operated by Henry Robinson, 56, of New York City, and William D. Kelly, 22, of 63

Crumkill Road, Albany, according to Highland State Police. Kelly was injured and taken to Benedictine Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance. He was treated for lacerations of the scalp. A report of Troopers Girard G. Hennen and John E. Hornbeck noted that Robinson was making a left turn into a private driveway and Kelly reportedly was attempting to pass at the time of the crash.

Robinson and two passengers, Robert James, 55, and Benjamin Miller, 30, both of New York City, escaped serious injury.

President Discusses BOCES Plan

KINGSTON — Ted Weiner, president of The Concerned Citizens Committee, has raised a number of questions on the proposed building expansion of the Board of Cooperative Educational Services (BOCES) for which a bond issue will be on the ballot on Jan. 19.

Weiner, a candidate for the Kingston Schools Consolidated Board of Education last year, said, "We wish to make very clear that we are very much in favor of the programs offered by BOCES and feel that the results have been very beneficial to our youth and our community."

"Our purpose in asking some questions is to obtain those answers that will assist us in making the best possible decision regarding the expenditure of $7,000,000 plus interest at this time," Weiner said.

"Will the new facility necessarily mean that the students will be getting a better education? Will the transportation cost increase?"

"If there isn't any oil on the land, what makes it worth $3,000 per acre?"

"Is it possible at the present time to find out who owns the land, and for how long?" Weiner asked.

"In trying to get the total accurate picture, we contacted two local bankers to assist us in computing the interest on $7,000,000 over a 20-year period. The anticipated $4,000,000 state aid is to be spread over a 20-year period. The interest alone at an estimated six per cent will cost the taxpayer over $5,000,000 for a total obligation of well over $12,000,000," Weiner asserted.

"The project will cost $7,500,000 (without the interest added on) the entire budget for the city of Kingston, with a population of over 27,000 (SIC) residents is $6,041,491.50 for 1972."

"Phase I at UCCS cost $2,830,691 and Phase II cost $5,066,037 for a total of $7,896,728. This includes upon completion, 150 developed acres and eight permanent buildings. The total amount invested by Ulster County will be 3.49 million dollars—and UCCS doesn't only serve Ulster County but the entire state, plus some out of state."

"We hope that every qualified voter exercises his rights to vote—so this issue isn't won or lost by default," Weiner concluded.

Confusion Clearing Up On Teachers' Pay Issue

KINGSTON — Retroactive pay for teachers in the Kingston Schools Consolidated appeared a step closer today following action by the Pay Board Thursday to clarify regulations on recovery of frozen wages.

Louis A. Salzmänn, superintendent of schools, said today that the new developments seemed to indicate that the retroactive pay would be paid. However, he has received no official word from the pay board rescinding the previous directive not to pay.

He noted that there had been much "confusion" in the wake of the wage freeze. He said that he could make no definite statement until he receives the official ruling.

The Kingston Teachers Federation through the American Teachers Federation and Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. has been pressing for the necessary clarification so that they could receive the raises written in their contract.

Mrs. Barbara L. Kleckner, president of the local Federation said today that the action taken by her organization was bearing fruit with the action taken by the Pay Board Thursday.

She said that Congressman Fish had assured the teachers that it was the intent of Congress to see that teachers got their pay raises negotiated prior to the Aug. 15 price freeze. The Pay Board ruling Thursday conforms with provisions Congress wrote into legislation for the second phase of President Nixon's economic stabilization program.

Under the section concerning retroactive pay, a substantial number of the nation's schoolteachers will get lost raises for which the money was already provided.

Liquor Dealers Plan Banquet

KINGSTON — Date and place of the annual banquet of the Ulster County Hotel, Restaurant and Liquor Dealers Association will be announced.

Plans for the event were discussed at the group's meeting this week at the Milton Tavern, Milton. Pat Donnelly, secretary of the organization said the next meeting will be Feb. 8 at Harp's Inn, Saugerties.

Two Arrested For Burglary

Two youths were arrested Wednesday by State Police on charges of burglary third degree as the result of an investigation of a Pine Bush house burglary on Tuesday. Troopers identified the youths as Gary Zwart, 17, and Michael Bryant, 16, both of Walker Valley. Arraigned beforeawangunk Town Justice J. Gregson Greer, Zwart was ordered held on $100 bail pending a reappearance in court. Bryant was released in custody of his parents. Trooper James E. Kelly made the original investigation. BCI Investigators Michael J. Mahoney and Larry P. Grogan continued the probe and made the arrest.

Mayor, Others File Statements

KINGSTON
Mayor Francis R. Koenig and Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo, running mates in the November elections, have filed campaign expenditure statements showing a total of $1,260 spent in that campaign. Koenig filed his statement with City Clerk Louis F. DeCicco on Jan. 7. Gallo filed his today. The deadline for filing, according to the Election Law, was Jan. 3.

The mayor, according to his voucher, received all contributions, $810, from the Koenig-Gallo Campaign fund. Gallo listed $200 out of his own pocket and the rest from his family. Koenig's expenses went primarily for advertising but also included $25 for the Veterans Memorial Fund (at city hall), $24 for the postmaster and $118 in cash for such things as tickets for barbeques, picnics and dinners. Gallo listed $300 for advertising and $150 for picnics, etc.

Bernard Singer, who ran against Gallo, filed with the Board of Elections on Nov. 22 for $631.25, Robert F. Murphy, Koenig's Republican Conservative opponent, has not filed, to date.

"They gave us a long-range plan for hospital expansion," Alderman Donald E. Quick (Sixth Ward), chairman of the Common Council's Laws and Rules Committee, told The Freeman today. "We wanted something more specific, things such as building layouts and actual costs, before making a decision."

Anthony Triulzi, hospital administrator, told The Freeman that hospital planners have still not determined if the city hall property will be sufficient for future hospital expansion.

Quick was told by hospital officials that definitive plans could be produced in between two and six months. Designation of the old city hall, which the city will abandon next month for its new building in Broadway East, will be held in abeyance until those plans are ready for Council study.

Quick said his position on the hospital's acquiring the old city hall for expansion purposes is flexible at this point. "I would hesitate to approve the takeover if it were only for parking," Quick said. "But if it were for new buildings, that could be another matter."

Quick's entire Laws and Rules Committee was in attendance last night, including Aldermen Emilio A. Primo Jr. (D-Eighth Ward), Joseph McGrane (D-Second Ward), Edmond J. Roux (R-Ninth Ward) and Brian D. Smith (R-Third Ward). Also in attendance on the city side were Alderman Peter J. Mancuso, (D-12th Ward), the Common Council majority leader, Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo, Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein and Mrs. Elizabeth Donnaruma, the mayor's representative to the Historic Landmarks Commission.

Members of the commission included Dr. Charles A. Galyon vice chairman and George Hutton, City Historian Harry Rigby was also in attendance. Wilbur Peters, chairman of the Kingston Hospital Board of Directors was joined by board members Christus Larios and Richard Kalish, and by the board's attorney, Abraham Streifer and its architect, John McCullough. Dorothy Rifenburg, president of the hospital auxiliary and Lillian Salpatis were also in attendance along with Triulzi, Edward Shirick, both of whom explained the hospital's position.

Quick said that the hospital currently has 225 beds but projected a need for 350 by 1985, at a current cost of $55,000 a bed. Quick said that the hospital preferred to expand on its present site, that is, toward the city hall. "The cost of building a new (350-bed hospital) would be unbelievable," Quick said.

The Historic Landmarks Preservation Commission held a public hearing on Nov. 29, 1971 with city hall on the list for building plans for the hospital's designation. After a lengthy projected expansion. Meanwhile, another meeting between the aldermen who now comprise the Laws and Rules Committee, for next Thursday night.

the commission agreed to hold the city hall designation in abeyance until further meetings with the hospital and the Laws and Rules Committee. City Hall has already been approved as a state historic landmark and an application with the National Historic Trust has been filed.

McCullough, the architect, has been directed to prepare with city hall on the list for building plans for the hospital's designation. After a lengthy projected expansion. Meanwhile, another meeting between the aldermen who now comprise the Laws and Rules Committee, for next Thursday night.

Super Bowl Separation

Well, milady, who did you enjoy the weekend, what with no pro football to isolate you from your loved ones, much as the wide receiver is isolated from the tackle? But you're wrong and due for a relapse into your September-to-January mental depression if you think all the chores the loved one did so willingly, and all the conversation he carried on with you, last weekend mean he's yours again to have and to hold (with no 15-yard penalty) from this weekend forward.

No, indeed. There's the Super Bowl, if he didn't inform you, and it'll be played this Sunday, so your loved one will recidivate, and if now the juices are stirring and your anger chart rising, don't yell naughty names at him. Inform him in no uncertain terms and tone (like a quarterback yelling signals) that's he's a recidivist. Before this deathless prose ends, it'll carry an explanation of what a recidivist is, but right now there's a pressing question that won't wait:

Why a two-week delay between the conference playoff games (Jan. 2), won by Miami and Dallas, and the Super Bowl game that will decide it (at last)? Injuries? Injuries, or the avoidance of same, are part of the game; if they're that important, why not play every other Sunday during the regular season, too? This could be done very simply: Open the exhibition season in April, extend the regular season from July to February, say, and transfer the Patriots', Vikings', Packers', Giants', etc. (the "north-erners") late games to Puerto Rico, Venezuela or Australia. That would bring the Super Bowl game itself probably into March, and also give the pro football officials an argument against those who squawk that pro football is stretched out to last all year.

Anyway, the ranks of Suffering Femininity should have been able to put an X through Jan. 9 on the calendar and put the Super Bowl behind them. Now it's still ahead. So are a couple of more pro (meaning for money) games dreamed up by the hungriest sport of of all. Barring a divorce by then, he and she she just might live normally once again, beginning sometime in February.

Oh—recidivist. Just a hifalutin' sort of word meaning a "backslider; a crime repeater, one who falls back or relapses into old habits." Just thought it sounds less harsh than "meathead" or "dummy."

Alcohol Galling Gaul

Back in the middle 50s, Pierre Mendes-France, then the prime minister of France, launched a unique campaign.

Alarmed by the growing problem of alcoholism, he sought to persuade his countrymen to drink less wine and more milk.

The effort went sour.

Now France is having second thoughts about its dubious distinction of having the world's highest alcohol consumption per capita. Official figures list average consumption per capita as 30 gallons of wine and 10 gallons of beer. Statistics also note that 30,000 Frenchmen are killed annually as a result of drink but skeptics say the total actually is closer to 100,000. They say that in many cases doctors don't dare bring in a verdict of death by alcoholism because it would displease the family.

So the government again is seeking to put an effective stopper on the bottle. It is cracking down on drunken drivers with newly-introduced Beathalyzer tests, it has banned sale of alcohol to children under 12, it is seeking to reduce the number of licensed cafes and to eliminate home grown wine distilleries.

Supplementing the government measures are widespread advertising campaigns in newspapers, on TV and on billboards, warning about the dangers of over-indulgence.

Up to this point there has been little discernible gain. In a nation of 51 million, some two million still are listed as alcoholics with another four million borderline.

And in what seems to be a contradictory move, the government has encouraged expansion of wine making through authorization for planting more vineyards designed to meet competition from Italy and southern Germany. True, France collects taxes for every bottle of wine sold but hospitalization and treatment costs for alcoholics far outweigh the wine levy.

So it's the old story all over again . . . special interest groups able to bring pressure to the detriment of the nation as a whole. Somehow it sounds familiar—like, how many times has it happened in America?

WASHINGTON — Rep. J. Irving Whalley, R-Pa., a power on the House Foreign Affairs Committee and a former United Nations delegate, has taken illegal kickbacks from employees, padded his payroll and chiseled House funds to pay for his Christmas gifts.

The Windber, Pa., wheeler-dealer has been cheating the taxpayers, quite methodically, behind a respectable front as a church elder, bank president and legislator-diplomat.

President Nixon named him in 1969 to a one-year term at the UN, where he spoke for the United States on such subjects as Red China, Korea and the UN budget. But while the world weighed his words at the UN, Whalley was gouging the taxpayers in his Pennsylvania district like a back-county Bobby Baker. We reported last September that Whalley had demanded kickbacks from a former aide, and we have been investigating his activities ever since. We can now prove that he has put more than a dozen editors, politicians and businessmen on the public payroll. Many were required to give him kickbacks in the form of personal services; others gave kickbacks in goods; some were compelled to pay their own office expenses, and sometimes even Whalley's expenses, from their House salaries.

We can also show that Whalley raided House stationery funds, which regulations say must be used by members solely "for the purpose of stationery and other supplies."

He stretched the regulations to include book ends, scarves and pen-and-pencil sets, which he then gave out as Christmas gifts. The recipients, of course, were unaware that as taxpayers they had helped pay for their own gifts.

Fiscal Fingering
In one of the many cases we investigated, Whalley paid for his political literature with U.S. Treasury funds. Here's how he worked it:

One of Whalley's staunch political allies is C. Robert Collary, proprietor of Capitol Press, a non-union printing shop in Duncannon, Pa. A pillar of his community, Collary is also a powerful GOP committeeman in Blair County and chairman of a Republican "zone."

We discovered that Collary has done more than $1,500 in free printing for the Congressman, much of it political.

Ordinarily, a Congressman would pay for the printing out of his campaign contributions. Instead, Whalley used the House Disbursing Office almost like it were his personal checking account.

Checks drawn at Whalley's order from the House show that Whalley put Collary on the payroll as a "staff" worker in 1967, paying him $997 that year. In fiscal 1971, Whalley paid him another $5,932.

Collary has kicked back $1,500 to $2,000 to Whalley in the form of free printing.

In a long talk with my associate Les Whitten, Collary at first said his free printing for Whalley amounted only to a "little letter press work." He later admitted it could have amounted to as much as $2,000 but said this might include $300 he spent on his travels for Whalley.

Asked whether he regarded the free printing as a kick-back, Collary snapped: "Absolutely not. Everything was on the up and up."

Whalley told us that such arrangements were common in Congress, although this runs counter to our experience. He explained that by hiring staff members for brief periods at a time in various parts of his district, he saves taxpayers the cost of opening up field offices in a variety of towns.

We will have more reports on the 11-year House veteran in future columns.

Hanoi's Game

An amazing account of how Hanoi is playing Russia and China against each other is contained in a secret CIA report in our possession.

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny competed with each other, according to the report, to offer North Vietnam more aid.

The report is based upon the confidential remarks, picked up by the CIA, of a high Foreign Ministry official named Hoang Muoi. Here are the highlights:

"Muoi stated that Chinese Premier Chou En-lai had made a secret trip to Hanoi following the July, 1971, visit of Dr. Kissinger to Peking. Chou assured the DRV (North Vietnamese government) of continued Chinese support . . .

"On the subject of aid, Muoi stated that the Chinese, in order to convince the DRV of their continued support had agreed to give more aid in the 1971-72 period. The Soviets were thus forced to increase their aid in order to balance off the Chinese assistance.

"The Soviet aid agreement, which resulted from Soviet President Podgorny's visit in October, was bigger than the 1970 agreement.

"Muoi said that, during the Podgorny visit, the Soviets proposed a friendship treaty with the DRV. Muoi said the DRV refused the offer because it would have certainly antagonized China and, in any event, the DRV does not need such a treaty to get what it wants from the Soviets."

Selection of Delegates

WASHINGTON — Millions of voters are reading about several prominent individuals who are aspiring to the presidential nomination of the Democratic party and who are announcing their entry into various state primaries. But very few people understand how the candidates are really chosen. Each party, of course, holds a National Convention. But how are the delegates picked and what obligations, if any, do they assume to their home districts?

Generally speaking, delegates to the National Conventions of both major parties are selected by one of two systems: either in primary elections or in a series of state and local conventions. But there are many variables in these two systems, according to state laws or party rules.

This year, more states than ever before — 22 states and the District of Columbia — will be holding primaries which will elect convention delegates or allow voters to express a preference among the various Presidential candidates. A majority of all the delegates to the Democratic convention will be chosen in these primary states.

The Democrats have adopted new rules — which the Federal courts now have upheld — on the allocation of convention delegates among the states. The rules provide that delegates shall be apportioned on a formula which takes into account two things: (1) the total population of the state or congressional district, and (2) the percentage of the vote in the state or district that was cast for the Democratic ticket in the last three Presidential elections.

The Republicans base their delegate allocation on the electoral college, which in turn is based on the population in the states, plus the two U.S. Senators from each state. Republican delegates are allotted by Congressional districts, with a certain number of statewide delegates according to a "bonus" system. Each state gets a bonus of six delegates if the Republican nominee for President, U.S. Senator or Governor won the state in the last election or if the state has a Republican majority in its house delegation.

Both parties rely on the primaries and the state-local convention system in appointing the delegates to the national conventions, who determine the national ticket and party platforms. But even in the primary states, there are differences. In some states, the delegates are bound to vote for the Presidential candidate who wins the majority of the popular vote in the preferential primary. In other states, they are not required to do so. Some states elect convention delegates in the primaries without reference to the Presidential contenders. Some states allow those who are running for delegate positions to express their preference among the Presidential contenders on the ballot, while other do not.

Not as much publicity is given to the states with convention systems, where the delegates are named in a series of party meetings, starting usually with precinct caucuses at the grass-roots level and going on up through a series of county or district meetings to a state convention. There the entire delegation is finally completed before the national conventions. But backers of the various candidates always are active at every step of this process, seeking to make sure that delegates are picked who will be favorable to their candidate.

The simple fact is that the manner of selecting delegates is not uniform. Some delegates are chosen on the basis of their influence inside the political party, while others get their posts because of their political offices or their financial contributions to the party.

In the case of a president who is up for re-election, the delegates, of course, usually want to support an incumbent administration. Their votes, therefore, are known generally in advance of the convention. This has happened in previous instances when a President has been seeking a second term, and 1972 will prove no exception.

As for the Democrats, with so many candidates entering the presidential race this year, there is no way of telling until the primaries have been completed what the local strength of each really is in the various states and congressional districts where the delegates are chosen. In the last analysis, the makeup of the Democratic ticket this year may not become apparent until the balloting takes place at the National Convention in Miami Beach, beginning July 10.

MATCHING GRANT FOR RHINEBECK HOME — On behalf of the McCann Foundation, John J. Gartland Jr. presents the letter of notification of the $25,000 challenge grant to Theodore Dahlstrom, Millbrook, local representative of the Baptist Home for the Aging.

Baptist Home to Receive Grant

RHINEBECK
The McCann Foundation of Poughkeepsie has announced its intention to present the Baptist Home of Brooklyn with a "challenge grant" of $25,000 for its move to Rhinebeck.

Terms of the gift, as announced by Homer F. Smith, President of the Board of Managers of the Home at a meeting in Hempstead, L.I., are that the McCann Foundation will match on a dollar-for-dollar basis any funds garnered in Dutchess County up to $25,000.

Speaking before an assembly of several hundred church men and women, Smith revealed this "significant development". The audience, including several prestigious Long Island Baptists, responded with great enthusiasm, as it was considered an important step toward relocation.

Among those present were U.S. Congressman Norman Lent; Judge James Niehoff of the Nassau County Courts; and Col. Oliver J. Troster of Troster, Singer, and Co., New York securities investors.

It was noted that although the grant did not affect the giving of Long Island friends it was a "great shot in the arm to our whole program."

Actual notification of the decision of the McCann Foundation matching grant had been made by John J. Gartland Jr., Dutchess County attorney and representative for the Foundation, to Theodore Dahlstrom of "Maybrook" in Millbrook.

Dahlstrom, one of the county members of the Board of Managers of the Home, was formerly a resident of Long Island and an active Baptist layman in that area.

The Baptist Home has operated for more than 100 years in Brooklyn. It recently purchased 74 acres in Rhinebeck at the Brookmeade estate and has begun active plans to relocate its facilities here.

Although historically a Baptist institution, the Home is open to all persons and will have an added nursing care facility when construction is completed.

Plans call for a $4 million installation. The Home is presently engaged in a state-wide $1 million capital fund campaign.

Smith underlined not only the importance of the McCann Foundation matching grant, but also the tremendous inspiration it provided to people in other parts of New York State.

New Staff Member at Rhinecliff Center

RHINECLIFF
With the start of the new year, Bruce Cost, a tall, earnest young Xerox Corporation employee, became one of the 45 staffers at Pius XII School, Holy Cross Campus, the Rhinecliff adolescent drug center affiliated with New York Catholic Charities.

The appointment represents stress group and individual therapy.

For Cost, now on a 12-month full-pay social services leave from Xerox, a marked departure from the corporate existence he has led for nearly six of his 26 years.

For Holy Cross Campus, sole drug rehabilitation center chosen in the Xerox program, this is one more confirmation of esteem for the residential program set up for young addicts 12 to 16 years of age.

The program opened at the former Cardinal Farley Military Academy in September with 10 youngsters, and now has about 50. The population is 88 per cent from New York City, with some from Orange and Ulster Counties.

According to Edward F. Dohrenwend, director of the program, Cost will have total involvement. He will take part in both the on-campus education and constructive leisure time phases of activities which representative. He has strong credentials in art and psychology through study at Wesleyan College, and is concerned with human relations.

"These young people," he commented, "are not going to be interested in my status, where I went to school, or who my friends are. They're going to want to find out what kind of person I am through direct human contact."

Dohrenwend noted that Cost has been spending weekends on the campus during the fall. "The young people are aware of Bruce's genuine interest in them as individuals, in where they are now, and in where they are going," he pointed out.

"I will not be superimposing my middle class set of values on the youngsters," Cost stressed. "I'll leave a lot of choices up to them. They have a lot of experience and knowledge in their own right. It may be different from mine, but it's there."

Flu-Like Illness Closing New York Schools

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Schools are closed today in at least three sections of New York State because of a rising incidence of a flu-like illness among pupils.

The State Health Department laboratory in Albany does not expect to have final results on its tests of the upper respiratory ailments for several weeks.

The closed schools are in Beacon, at least one in Little Falls, three districts in Steuben County and Brocton Central School in Chautauque County.

Absentee rates as high as 28 per cent were reported by Robert Musgrove, school superintendent in Beacon.

St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh, just across the Hudson River from Beacon, joined Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie and the Cornwall Hospital in asking that friends or relatives restrict their visits because of the spreading infection.

Hospitals in Auburn and other central New York communities made similar requests last week.

The Avoca, Prattsburg and Cohocton school districts in Steuben County, closed for three-day weekends, as did St. Mary's Academy in Little Falls.

Onondaga County Health Commissioner Dr. William Harris said doctors have been treating hundreds of cases of flu-like ailments but said none had been confirmed as influenza. He noted that upper respiratory infections normally increase in winter.

Poughkeepsie Area Stores Face Phosphate Charges

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—Representatives of two supermarkets and a grocery store here and in the Town of Poughkeepsie will face hearings in Albany beginning Tuesday on charges they violated the state's new law banning the sale of high-phosphate detergents.

The three stores were charged Wednesday in the first such crackdown in the area since the law became effective Jan. 1.

The law allows sale of detergents containing 8.7 per cent or less phosphorous. The law also requires phosphorous content labeling.

The markets involved are the Grand Union on Main Street, the Lloyd's store on Market Street and the Pantry Pride at Hudson Plaza in the Town of Poughkeepsie.

The maximum penalties under the law are a $2,500 fine and a $500 fine for each day the violation continues.

Dutchess Camera Club To View Special Program

Appointments Are Reviewed In Marbletown

STONE RIDGE

Appointments for 1972 were reviewed at Wednesday's meeting of the Marbletown Town Board.

Town officers include: Ronald Roose, deputy supervisor; Lillian Quick, registrar of vital statistics; Mrs. Joanne Hoffman, deputy registrar of vital statistics and deputy town clerk; Dorothy Montayne, second deputy town clerk; Edith VanAken, third deputy town clerk; Mrs. Robert Diamond, town historian and Edwin Shumate, civil defense director.

Also named were: Kenneth Smith, welfare officer; William Suefle, director of recreation; John Albright Sr., multi-family building inspector; Myron Guthrie, zoning inspector; George Schneider, dog warden and John Wilkie, town attorney.

Named as town constables were: Robert Gerdes, Bernard Carney, John Pismopolus, William Brooks, John Albright Sr., John Hasenflue and Derwin Stevens.

Town Board members were named to committee posts by Supervisor Kenneth Smith. George Terwilliger was named liaison between the town landfill and the Town Board; Edmund Ruffner was named to the Recreation Committee; Robert S. Diamond was named to the Highway Committee and Edwin Shumate was named to the Zoning Review Board.

Charles Dedrick was re-appointed to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Year-end reports and projections for 1972 were given by Mrs. Stanley Walker, chairman of the Planning Board; Robert Hassenhauer, chairman of the Zoning Board of Appeals; Marjorie Dunbar, chairman of the Environmental Conservation Commission; William Coler, chairman of the Zoning Review Board and Recreation chairman Suefle.

A report by Zoning Inspector Myron Guthrie noted that in 1971 106 building permits were issued in the township, including six for new swimming pools, 30 for new private homes; 21 for additions to existing homes; 19 for mobile homes and six special use permits.

A petition was presented to the Town Board by the Board of Trustees of the Fairview Cemetery Association requesting that the town assume responsibility for the maintenance of a road from Pine Bush Road to the cemetery. The matter will be studied by the Town Board.

The Town Board also issued an appeal on behalf of the Marbletown First Aid Squad, which needs additional volunteers to continue its activities.

Town Board meetings will be held on the second Wednesday of each month beginning at 7:30 p.m.

SOME IMPORTANT QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT THE STRIKE AT NEW YORK TELEPHONE

No one knows better than the 38,000 members of the Communications Workers of America that the start of this New Year marks the 25th week of their gallant battle for economic justice at New York Telephone.

No one knows better than they the sacrifice they have made . . . the hardships they have endured . . . the worry-filled days and the sleepless nights.

And no one knows better than they the odds they faced in taking on one of the nation's greatest industrial giants—the Bell System and its subsidiary, the New York Telephone Co.

The Bell System and New York Telephone have at their command resources and power beyond imagination—power to make the national government's Federal Communications Commission back away from an investigation of their practices and policies . . . financial resources that put to shame the budgets of many of the world's smaller nations . . . power to import strikebreakers across state lines despite a New York City law forbidding such action.

But the New York Telephone workers—the clerks, the linemen, the cable splicers, the thousands of men and women, seen and unseen, who knit together the communications network of our cities, states and nation—have taken on this giant.

And that leads to some questions.

What have New York Telephone workers got against New York Telephone?

The answer is simple. The 38,000 men and women who work for New York Telephone believe—with a sincerity that they have proved by 25 weeks on the picket line—that as a matter of economic justice they're entitled to a better contract than the company has offered them. They are entitled to this on the basis of the skills they possess, the living costs they face, the wages and conditions enjoyed by other workers with comparable skills.

Why doesn't the Communications Workers of America order its members back to work?

The CWA has rules and a constitution developed by the membership. It believes in obeying those rules. Membership meetings all over the state, some as recent as last week, have made clear the determination of CWA members to stay on strike until they are offered a better contract by New York Telephone. CWA will not violate its rules and "order" its members back to work.

When will the strike end?

The strike will end when New York Telephone workers are offered—and accept—a better contract than the one they have already rejected.

Don't the telephone workers want to go back to work?

Of course. But they won't go back to work until they obtain an acceptable contract.

What will it take to settle the strike at New York Telephone?

All it will take will be an honest facing of the facts by New York Telephone. For five months it has been hedging, stalling and evading, hoping it can find some substitute for honest collective bargaining. Now it appears New York Telephone is again kidding itself into the belief that somehow the New Year will bring with it a back-to-work movement. It's been wrong for five months. It's wrong now.

What's the current status of negotiations?

In recent weeks the tempo of negotiations between CWA and the New York Telephone has been stepped up. A number of federal and state officials have been involved at various levels. At all levels of the union, which includes our bargaining committee in New York, our District Headquarters, and our International Union headquarters, we have had activities connected with bargaining going on day and night.

Make no mistake about it.

The CWA is going to win this strike at New York Telephone. In many respects it has already won. CWA members have demonstrated they have the character and moral resources to take on the vast Bell System and New York Telephone.

They have stood fast and united in the face of efforts to split and divide them. They have been resolute in supporting their local unions. With quiet strength and courage they have done what they know to be right.

They will continue to pursue that course.

Bon Voyage Wreath Went to Funeral

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Now I know that I have truly seen everything! My husband and I have owned and operated a small florist shop for the last 15 years, and I have encountered some unusual situations. But the one I had yesterday beats them all.

Two middle-aged women came into the shop together and asked what I had to offer in the way of a "Bon Voyage" wreath, so I showed them what I had in my catalog. I asked if a man or woman was going abroad, and one of the women replied, angrily: "It is for my sister's FUNERAL!"

I must have shown my amazement because she then added: "If you were a true Christian you would consider death as the beginning of a long, happy trip."

Abby, I do consider myself a Christian, and I refused to sell that woman a "Bon Voyage" wreath for her sister's funeral.

When my husband came in, I told him what had happened and he laughed and said: "You should have sold it to her."

I was very much upset by my husband's response as I have always considered death to be a very solemn occasion. Maybe you or some of your readers could tell me what they would have done.

SHOCKED IN ALBUQUERQUE

DEAR SHOCKED: I vote with your husband. How one views death is a highly personal matter. If the woman wanted to wish her deceased sister a happy trip, I'd have sold her a "Bon Voyage" wreath.

build up. Tell her. But don't you use a needle.

DEAR ABBY: You have to be kidding! A suspicious wife writes her husband has taken an interest in a divorced coworker who is lonely. And you tell her to make a buddy out of this girl, invite her over, get her a date and make it a foursome.

At one time I was happily married, but wanting to do for others, I invited a "poor, lonely friend" to join my husband and me when we went to parties, or entertained.

My husband used to run over to her house and help her fix things. Well, because I was so shortsighted and trusting, you guessed it. My husband fell for her, and he wouldn't believe. He left me and moved in with her.

It lasted three months. He found out what a fool he'd been and he left her. But first he scooped all the money out of what was by then their joint account. He'd never done anything like that in his life, but he had become so addicted, he wasn't responsible. He messed up our lives, but good.

We were divorced, washing 20 years down the drain.

I'm still single, altho I've had several marriages.
divorces, annulments and his life is so fouled up it's unbelievable. He looks 20 years

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR HELOISE: In one of your columns I read a hint to use in bathrooms with little space, and I'd like to add my own solution to the same problem. This is our first apartment — it's small, with no linen closet.

So here's what we did: We used a bookshelf to store towels, tissues, soap, etc. You can get metal bookshelves from the catalogs or elsewhere. This is the type you put together yourself.

When we move to a bigger place we can use it for books. So we're saving money by getting something that can be used in one of the other rooms.

If you don't like to have your soap and cleaning supplies on display, cover boxes with decorative adhesive backed paper to store them in.

Actually, we've found that having things on display helps us to keep things tidy. Besides, towels are so pretty now.

Thanks for listening. LYDIA JEAN WALTERS That's a peach of an idea! So thrifty, too. Lydia is right gals.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE:

Do you ever get grease from car doors or bicycles on your clothes?

Go to the dime store and buy some white chalk. Just like the kind used on school blackboards.

Rub this well on the spot and let it stay there a while. Then launder as usual.

Works perfectly.

MRS. J.F.

DEAR HELOISE:

Let me tell you what I did to make a pretty tablecloth.

I used a polyester double-knit, zig-zag stitched around the edge and trimmed it with nylon lace. It didn't take long at all.

My table is oval, so I had small pieces left from the corners. I made them into fitted covers for the arms of our favorite easy chairs.

I enjoy your hints in the daily paper and also treasure a copy of your book, "Heloise All Around the House."

Keep on with the good work.

VERNA CRAIN

Letter of Laughter

DEAR HELOISE:

Did you ever wonder how some people find so much time to read?

The bathtub is my favorite place for this! Just be careful not to drop the book!

day package beautifully wrapped in (what else?) nylon net. The net was gold and tied with red ribbons.

What a useful idea, as I now have plenty of net to make dish scrapers.

This brought to mind an idea I used when I had a baby gift too large for the usual wrapping paper.

I wrapped it in a few yards of nursery-design cotton flannel from which the mother could make a couple of baby nightgowns. She appreciated the idea very much.

"Make it serve at least twice," is my idea of a penny saved.

MRS. S. D. KETTERING

DEAR HELOISE: To save time in "spotting" clothes, each member of the family puts a clip clothespin on a spot that requires special attention.

It saves time in checking each piece before laundering.

Food Consumer Report Is Given

Prices have dropped sharply for all sizes of eggs during the past month according to the New York State

Market and Consumer Information Service. Large eggs are down 9 1/2 cents per dozen and medium and small eggs declined 12 cents per dozen during this period. This nutritious, high protein food item is now in the best buy class. Retail chain and independent food stores are expected to reflect this situation.

Below freezing temperatures in Arizona growing sections has drastically reduced harvesting of Iceberg Lettuce. This situation has resulted in sharply higher wholesale prices at western shipping points. Consumers may expect to find a much higher price tag on Iceberg lettuce at their local retail produce counter. You will also find the heads are small.

Super Bowl Is the 'Ultimate' — Landry

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "This is the ultimate—it's not just another game," says Dallas Coach Tom Landry.

For the Cowboys and Miami Dolphins, the ultimate—the kickoff for Super Bowl VI—arrives Sunday in Tulane Stadium at 2:30 p.m., EST, with national television coverage by CBS.

"You try to convince yourself that this is just one more game. You try to say you've got to look at it the way you look at any other one," says Landry.

"But you just can't, no matter how much you try. Let's face it, this is what it's all about. This is what 26 teams are shooting for at the start of the season."

For the Dolphins, a relatively young squad which has rocketed from an also-ran to the ultimate in just two seasons, it's a new experience.

For the Cowboys, it's just one more championship—and another chance to shake the not-wholly-deserved image of "blowing the big ones."

Dallas, which went into last year's Super Bowl as the favorite, then lost to the Baltimore Colts 16-13, are the odds-makers' pre-game pick again, this time by a touchdown.

But that doesn't please Landry, who says it can work against the favorite.

"Perhaps being favored can hurt a bit. It can make a team overconfident, can make them let up just a bit—but although I don't think that'll happen in our case."

"Conversely," he said, "being the underdog can cause a team to play over its head. I just don't know what affect, if any, it'll have on either of us."

Miami Coach Don Shula agrees with Landry's assessment.

"I don't pay attention to the favorites,"

In the past three Super Bowls, the odds have had no relation to the outcome. Each time the underdog has come out on top.

Sunday's clash features two clubs with both solidly steady and potentially explosive offenses. On defense, too, they're remarkably similar, although the odds-makers say it is defense which gives Dallas the edge.

At quarterback, each has a relatively young but highly polished performer.

For the Cowboys, it's Roger Staubach, a third-year player from Navy who won the starting role from Craig Morton in mid-season and, with Landry shutting in the plays from the bench, has taken Dallas to nine successive victories.

For the Dolphins, it's Bob Griese, a five-year veteran from Purdue, who calls his own game.

And, in each case, it's the respective conference's top-rated passers who will be barking out the signals. Staubach led the NFC with completions on 126 of 211 attempts for a 59.7 percentage, 15 touchdowns and only four interceptions. Griese headed the AFC, hitting on 145 of 263 passes for a 55.1 percentage and 19 touchdowns with nine passes picked off.

Each has a target for the bomb. Griese will be aiming his at Paul Warfield, only the conference's No. 9 receiver with 43 catches—but they amounted to a 23.2 yards-per-catch average and 11 touchdowns, each category tops in the league.

Bob Hayes is the Cowboys' long-ball threat. He made 35 receptions for a 24 yards-per-catch average and eight touchdowns, including the NFC's longest aerial scoring play of the year, an 85-yarder.

On the ground, the Dolphins rely almost exclusively on Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick—and they don't need much more.

Csonka, the AFC's No. 2 rusher, ripped around and through the opposition for 1,051 yards and seven touchdowns and Kiick, ninth in the conference, added 738 yards and three touchdowns.

The Cowboys have more diversity in the backfield. Duane Thomas, the No. 7 rusher in the NFC, piled up 793 yards and a league-high 11 touchdowns on the ground.

Calvin Hill, who may see limited action Sunday due to a knee injury, and Walt Garrison, shared much of the rest of the running, Hill getting 468 yards and Garrison, technically Dallas' No. 3 runner, getting 429.

And Staubach was No. 4. The rugged quarterback scrambled 41 times for 343 yards.

In addition to Warfield, Griese threw heavily to Kiick coming out of the backfield and to wide receiver Howard Twilley and tight end Marv Fleming.

Staubach, who also goes to his backs quite a bit, will also be looking for wide receiver Lance Alworth and tight ends Billy Truax and Mike Ditka, the latter two operating as Landry's signal-carrying service.

On defense, the Cowboys and Dolphins finished second overall in their respective conferences. Dallas' Doomsday Defense was the best in the NFC against the rush but ninth against the pass while Miami was fourth in stopping both the ground and aerial game.

The edge the Cowboys would appear to have comes with experience. They've got an average of 8½ years on defense, some five more than the Dolphins, who will be starting five second-year men. Middle line-backer Nick Buoniconti, a 10-year veteran, is the man around whom Miami has built its defense.

One of the Cowboys' biggest threats is tackle Bob Lilly, who makes a habit of mauling quarterbacks and stopping runners dead in their tracks.

And behind 11-year star Lilly are more grizzled veterans, including eight-year cornerback Mel Renfro, whose main assignment will be to defuse the Warfield bomb threat.

Nicklaus Spread-Eagles Field

By JOE SARGIS
UPI Sports Writer
PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — The saying in golf is that when Jack Nicklaus has his game in hand no one can play with him.

There is no question Jack is in top shape today and this never was demonstrated so clearly as in the opening round of the $140,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Thursday.

Nicklaus, out of competition for five weeks but coming off a hot streak that saw him win four of the last five events he entered, took Cypress Point apart with a six-under 66 to spread-eagle the field by three strokes.

He had seven birds and one bogey on the round of 33-33 and Mowry shot a course record 69

Jack plays today in the second round.

—Lee Trevino, Paul Moran and Larry Mowry. Trevino and Moran had matching three-under 69s at Cypress while Mowry shot a course record 69

Jack plays today in the second round.

He's Too Tough

"When he's Nicklaus playing his game," whistled Trevino, "no one is going to beat him. He's just too tough."

Trevino had three birds and no bogies on his opening round of 35-34 and said he was more than satisfied.

"A 69 is a pretty good round any time you can get it," said Trevino. "This is a good start for me. You have to get off fast to win any tournament and now it puts me in good shape except for Nicklaus."

Moran and Mowry had four birds and one bogey on their cars. And with Trevino, they stood a stroke ahead of Al Geiberger, Dale Douglas, Billy Johnston, Tom Weiskopf, Mike Morley, Lanny Wadkins and Tony Jacklin.

There were 10 players tied at one under 71 and 14 at 72. That meant only 35 players in the starting field of 170 shot par or less over the three Crosby courses.

Some Have Problems

While things were falling right in place for Nicklaus and Trevino, defending champ Tom Shaw, Los Angeles Open winner George Archer, Billy Casper and two old war horses — Sammy Snead and Dutch Harrison — were having their problems.

Casper shot a three-over 75. Archer a four-over 76, Shaw and Snead five-over 77s and Harrison a 10-over 82.

In the Pro-Am competition, the teams of Ralph Johnson and J. L. DuPont and Bobby Nichols and Glen Campbell were tied for the lead with best-ball scores of eight-under 64.

In the Crosby format, everyone plays one round on each of the three courses before they make the cut for the final round to be played at Pebble Beach on Super Bowl Sunday. The low 70 and tied pros play the final round along with the low 33 teams.

Crosby Scores

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—First round scores in the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am:

Jack Nicklaus 33-33-66
Paul Moran 35-34-69
Lee Trevino 35-34-69

A Night for Walt Tkaczuk

'Unknown' Ranger Clicking

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — All the attention Jean Ratelle received for leading the National Hockey League in scoring during the first half of the season must have gotten Walt Tkaczuk a little bit jealous.

And given him some ideas. Tkaczuk, one of the Rangers' "other" centers, scored two goals and added two assists Thursday night to lead New York to a 5-2 victory over the Buffalo Sabres. In New York's past four outings, Tkaczuk has poured in seven goals and scored 12 points.

The Rangers, who lead the NHL East with 63 points, picked up one point on second place Boston when Ross Lonsberry scored an unassisted goal for Los Angeles in the final six minutes of play, boosting the Kings to a 1-1 tie with the Bruins in Boston Garden. The Bruins now have 61 points.

New York's No. 1 line of Ratelle, Vic Hadfield and Rod Gilbert, the highest scoring line in the NHL, was blanked by a Buffalo trio of Don Luce, Danny Lawson and Ron Anderson.

"No line this year has contained the Ratelle line as well as this one did," New York Coach Emile Francis said after the game. "Fortunately, when the big scoring line is checked, we have other guys who can come through and score for us."

The "other guys" Francis was talking about were Tkaczuk and his linemates, Billy Fairbairn and Gene Carr, who produced all five New York goals.

Fairbairn gave New York a quick 2-0 lead by scoring twice within the opening six minutes. Tkaczuk added his two goals in the second frame to give the Rangers a 4-0 spread but Luce and Steve Atkinson countered for the Sabres before the end of the period. Carr put the game out of reach with the final goal of the contest at 7:16 of the third period.

"The Tkaczuk line has been playing very well some time," declared an appreciative Francis. "Walt has been playing great hockey, out the puck just didn't go in until about the last 10 games."

Tkaczuk now has 16 goals, Fairbairn 10 and Carr, the rookie obtained earlier this season from the St. Louis Blues, nine.

In other NHL action, the Montreal Canadiens routed the Pittsburgh Penguins 7-1 for their 19th straight win at home and remain the only undefeated team on its home ice this season.

Pete Mahovich's two goals sparked the Canadiens to an early 3-1 lead.

Ross Lonsberry scored with 5:18 left in the game to earn the Kings a 1-1 tie with the Boston Bruins at Boston. The Bruins held a 1-0 lead on Johnny McKenzie's goal at 4:34 of the third period before Lonsberry tied the score after stealing the puck from former teammate Wayne Cashman.

WEST HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Nets' minisreak of three games gets an endurance test this weekend and team captain Bill Melchioni sees it as "a pivotal time."

The Nets defeated the Floridians 110-94 Thursday night and jumped to third in the American Basketball Association East Division. But the team

Marist Beaten

BLOOMFIELD, N.J. A long scoring drought in the first half by Marist College proved costly, as Bloomfield came back from 10 points down to win, 70-66, in a Central Atlantic Conference basketball game here Thursday night.

Marist managed to stay within range despite being outshot and out-rebounded by wide margins. Bloomfield made 21 per cent more of its field goals than Marist and also hauled down 20 more caroms.

Marist hit their cold spell after jumping off to a 16-6 lead midway through the first half. Bloomfield scored 15 consecutive points over the next 7 minutes and never trailed thereafter.

Rich Lynch put the final icing on the cake by sinking two free throws with 4 seconds left after Nick Jackson had cut the Bloomfield lead to 68-66 just 12 seconds earlier.

Pete Calabrese led all scorers with 25 points for Bloomfield, while Jackson was high for Marist with 16. The losers were forced to play minus two starters because of the flu and a broken hand.

Marist is now 6-2 on the season with a 2-1 conference record. They will travel to Kings Point, N.Y. Saturday night to play the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy.

The Floridians were unable to defense Barry & Co., as they dropped their fourth straight. "We miss Larry Jones," said Bob Bass, Floridians' coach. Jones broke his right hand recently and is out for a month.

"He's on the front end of our fast break 60 per cent of the time," said Bass. Since he's gone, we've lost our running game. Our club was starting to move before he got hurt. We had won seven of nine.

Reshuffled UCAL Race Resumes Tonight

Highland Hosts Red Hook; SHS at Lourdes

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON

The last thing the confusing Ulster County Athletic League's Southern Division basketball standings needed was to get a little more confusing. But Wednesday's disclosure that Ontario would have to forfeit three games because of the use of an ineligible player has thrown the tight situation into a veritable tizzy.

In case you missed it, Ontario was penalized when it was discovered that center Al Donnels, a September transfer student from New York City, had too many academic credits to remain eligible for varsity competition. So OCS gave up four football wins and three UCAL basketball triumphs. The fourth Indian league victory

Tuesday against New Paltz was without Donnels since the error had been learned of by that time.

Prior to the forfeitures the Southern race had Highland on top at 5-2, followed by Coleman, Marlboro, and Red Hook at 4-3, and Ellenville at 3-3. But Ontario had beaten Coleman, Red Hook, and Ellenville with Donnels in the lineup. With the reversals included the revised and vacuum-tight race reads as follows: Highland, Coleman, and Red Hook all at 5-2; Ellenville at 4-2, and Marlboro at 4-3.

Marlboro then drops from a second place tie to a solo hold or the cellar. Coleman moves back in to a first place tie even though it has just lost to Highland, and Red Hook, despite a few shaky performances, also goes into a tie for the lead.

Tonight's Slate

Games tonight will help straighten out matters. Red Hook travels to Highland and Ellenville visits Coleman. Marlboro is idle. In the North, where Ontario fell from 4-2 to 1-5 but where little seems to matter since Liberty will apparently dominate, New Paltz is at Walkkill; Liberty at Pine Bush; and Ontario is at Rondout.

Two important Dutchess County Scholastic League games are also on tap for this evening. In the Central Section, once-beaten Saugerties goes to undefeated Lourdes; and in the Bi-Valley loop, Millbrook is at Rhinebeck in the battle of the upbeats.

Ron Pape, Ontario's coach, may be the best qualified to interpret the UCAL South. After all, his team has had more than just a little to do with the way things have taken shape.

"I still like Highland," says Pape, "but Red Hook looks good and although many people aren't that high on Marlboro, I think they might sneak through."

And what about Pape's ballclub, the defending UCAL champions? How are the forfeits going to affect it both mentally and on the court?

"I was a little worried at first about how it would affect the kids," Pape admits. "We had a team meeting and they were down, you could see it in practice. The first thing they asked was if they would still be eligible for the sectionals. I told them they would. Now I'm sure they won't give up, that being in mind. Tuesday against New Paltz showed it. As far as the UCAL goes, I think they'll try to be spoilers."

Donnels' departure should hurt the Indians in the depth department, but as Pape pointed out, "the others seem to have filled in admirably."

Highland's Muscle

The Red Hook-Highland game figures to be a case of the Raiders' opportunistic offense versus the Highlanders' defense.

Red Hook has turned the tide in several contests with an effective full-court press and boasts the No. 3 shooter in the league: Dan Theberge (18.0). Highland, which will have the services of lanky forward Clyde Napier for the last time before he transfers, is a physical outfit (Ron and Perry Monroe see to that) and a speedy team (thanks to John Barrington).

Ellenville-Coleman pits two well-balanced teams. The Statesmen are the smaller of the pair but that's no surprise. Size, however, may not be the crucial factor. Instead it will be how sharp Ellenville gunner Wayne Grey (12.1) and Coleman poppers Phil Palladino (18.3) and John Geuss (14.4) will be. If it comes down to the rebound chippies look for Tony Ware (11.8) of the Ellies to be the difference.

Lourdes comes up against Saugerties as the leader in the Central Section and fresh from a satisfying 84-68 triumph over Newburgh Free Academy. The Warriors showed plenty to Ulster County fans when they beat Kingston last month. And you really can't pick a standout on the Lourdes club. As NFA Coach Mickey Burkoski said after his team had fallen before Dick Beams' team: "They were just better. Their five men were in double figures and played good basketball."

Saugerties was routed by Jay last week and will try to regroup knowing that guard Craig Wrolsen has given it an extra hot hand to help balance the contributions of Rich Koegel and Tommy Whitaker.

Rhinebeck had its game against Oakwood Tuesday cancelled because of a flu bug which had swept the latter team and might be rusty for its first-place battle with Millbrook. Paul Kane leads the Rhinebeck quintet.

Rule Female Umpire 'Safe'

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Bernie Gera won a key 5-2 decision in the state's highest court Thursday in her 2½-year struggle to break professional baseball's sex barrier and become the first female umpire.

The Court of Appeals, acting on a suit charging unlawful discrimination, ordered the New York-Pennsylvania League to change the regulations which bar Bernie from umpiring in the Class A minor league.

The ruling upheld a decision by the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court directing the league to set new physical standards which would not exclude women or men of ethnic or national groups whose average size is smaller than that of American men. Bernie Gera, a 41-year-old New York City housewife, scheduled a news conference today to discuss the outcome of her court battle.

Mrs. Gera played on her high school softball team and coached little league teams. And she wrote a column on the national pastime in a Queens newspaper before deciding to become an umpire.

Using the first name "Bernie," and not stating her gender since it wasn't asked on the application form, Mrs. Gera was accepted at the Al Somers School for Umpires in 1967. But when she showed up for class, the school said there had to be an important "policy matter" to be discussed.

The school never informed her of the outcome of the discussion. She then applied to the Florida Umpire Baseball School, attended and was graduated in July of 1967.

In June of 1969, she was hired by the New York-Penn league, subject to the approval of Philip P. Pion, president of the National Association of Baseball Leagues.

He did not approve, and sent her a letter noting that requirements included a minimum height of five feet 10 inches, and a weight of about 170. Mrs. Gera is five feet, two inches tall and weighs 120 pounds.

The league president also wrote her a letter, saying it would "pose certain problems" to hire a female umpire. Dressing room facilities would not be adequate, he said.

He also said he would not want to have his sister or his mother exposed to some of the language used on the field.

In August of 1969, Mrs. Gera filed her complaint with the Human Rights Division, which took the case to court for her.

Reinstated

AMES, IOWA (UPI)—Iowa State's basketball team captain, Gene Mack, suspended Sunday because he missed the meal and team meeting before the game with Oklahoma, was reinstated Wednesday by Coach Maury John.

John said he allowed Mack to return because he "gave every indication he is going to come back and conform to the rules and do things the way we like to have them done."

Devaney Hints He'll Retire

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI)—Nebraska's Bob Devaney, the most successful coach in college football, says he feels fine most of the time.

It's only those Saturdays in autumn that have him thinking about retiring.

"I'm going back home and make a decision about whether to get out of coaching in the next few days," Devaney said Thursday at the hotel where he's attending the American Football Coaches Association annual meeting.

"When I get up on Saturday mornings during the season, I know by the way I feel that I should be sitting back and watching football on television."

Devaney, who has coached the University of Nebraska to national titles the past two years, added that he hasn't made up his mind to quit—he just wants to sit down and think it over.

"I make that decision every year. I've gone through that every year for the last three years," he said. "No doctor has told me to get out of coaching. It just seems to me that this may be the right time."

"You always ought to quit when they don't think you should, instead of waiting till they want you to."

Devaney, who is 56, said he would retain his job as athletic director at Nebraska, even if he retires from his other role as head coach. He said this might allow him to devote more time to working for a new coliseum at Nebraska, a project he is devoted to.

His record of 127-28-6 during 15 years as head coach at Wyoming and Nebraska gives Devaney the top percentage among active college coaches. His Nebraska teams are on a 32-game undefeated streak over the past three seasons and have won their last 23 games in a row.

Still, Devaney's fellow coaches gave their coach of the year award Thursday to Paul "Bear" Bryant of Alabama. The voting was held before Nebraska trounced Alabama 38-6 in the Orange Bowl Jan. 1.

Farmingdale Now No. 1 Team

State U. at Farmingdale, on the strength of its recent victory over Ulster County Community College, has replaced the upstart by a one-point margin as the No. 1-rated team in Region XV of the NJCAA.

The latest weekly ratings give Farmingdale four first place votes and 39 points. Ulster and Manhattan each received three first-place votes with UCCU collecting 38 votes and Manhattan 36.

Dutchess and Nassau each got five points and no first place votes. At the time of the ratings, Ulster had the best record in the region at 12-1. Farmingdale was 10-1 and Manhattan 11-1.

Ulster lost to Farmingdale and defeated Manhattan. Farmingdale's loss came at the hands of the West Point Plebes.

Ulster was listed among the leaders both team offense and defense, ranking third (92.4) on offense and (65.0) on defense. Greater Hartford is the highest scoring team at 98.3, with Kingsborough hitting 96.4, and Farmingdale 90.1.

Defensive honors go to Farmingdale by a one-point margin over Ulster, 64-65. NYCC is third at 68.0 followed by average. Steve Quimby of Orange is runnerup at 25.7. Top rebounder is Ray Brown of Dutchess with 24 a game.

Concordia 70.8, and Suffolk 75.0. With Larry Frazier of Rockland knocked out of the ratings because of ineligibility, of Kingsborough with a 25.7

Kickers in White Plains Tourney

KINGSTON Sport Club Kickers will be among 40 teams participating in the 10th annual German-American Football Association's Indoor Tournament Saturday and Sunday at the Westchester County Center in White Plains.

The tournament begins Saturday at 6 p.m. with a game between Poughkeepsie Blue and White and Oceanside. The Kickers meet the winners of the 7:40 p.m. duel between Bavarians and American Czechs at 9:12 p.m.

Since the indoor playing area is smaller than a normal soccer field, the number of players on a team will be limited to six. The duration of a game is 15 minutes, divided into two halves of 7½ minutes each.

N. Y. State Ski Report

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Here are the latest New York State ski conditions as reported Thursday to the State Commerce Department.

Petraglia Boosts Lead To 147 Pins at Denver

DENVER (UPI)—Johnny Petraglia of Brooklyn, N.Y., won seven of his eight games Thursday to grab a 147-pin lead in the $50,000 Denver Open Bowling Tournament.

Sixteen more match games remained on the schedule today before the five finalists head into Saturday's championship flight.

Petraglia, 25, went into Thursday's evening session with a lead of only 13 pins over Butch Gearhart of Houston at the end of the 18-game qualifying round. Petraglia's average for the elimination phase, which ended earlier in

Your Horoscope

Saturday, January 15

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to forego that temptation to clear the atmosphere by some big argument or discussion. Make a special point of letting those about know that you like them and want to get along in peace and harmony. Otherwise this can be a day of estrangements and separations that are for little purpose.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have to be most careful of your good name today, especially where higher-ups are concerned. Even false appearances could lead to trouble. Make sure you get your bills paid.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Not a good day to make new acquaintances, get into new outlets, activities, but fine for clearing your desk of work. Impress associates with your ability to complete what you have started. Gain their goodwill.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Dig right into all those responsibilities that have to be gotten behind you quickly and get them done, despite any irritation you may feel. Don't lose your temper with mate. Show you have willpower.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) An associate could make biting remarks because of trouble at home, so do not argue and save an otherwise good partnership. Gain good will of others by keeping your word to them. Relax tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You had better get those duties attended to at home even though you want to go out for usual Saturday recreation. Don't expect help from allies, who are in a rather bad mood now. Evening is fine for light recreation.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good day to put worries aside and get out with congenials and entertain them, and vice versa. Good pals give good ideas. Mull them over well before putting them in operation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can get rid of whatever it is that is causing friction at home now, and should do so. Do this quietly and not through argument. An evening spent with family can be most enjoyable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to take much care in driving today when you are in the mood to dash around visiting here and there. Let your conversation be edifying, but don't get smart-alecky, no matter what the provocation. Think of feelings of others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) It's fine to add to present prosperity, but don't spend your money unwisely. Don't jeopardize present holdings, either. A good day for studying whatever is of a practical nature.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) There is some situation that you can do little about right now, so stop getting all upset over it. Plan how to improve personal affairs so you have more peace and harmony. Now is the time to plan that trip, also.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although you think you are overburdened with work, if you get right at it, you find you still have free time left over for social activities. Nothing could be worse than self-pity right now. Avoid some situation that is fraught with danger.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You want to see certain friends and get something off your chest, but it is not a good day for such. Study the matter well and see if you aren't at fault instead. Go after some personal aim that is easy to attain now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those interesting young people who early in life feels that all opposition should be met with stiff physical resistance, so teach while young that the diplomatic approach toward others yields far more satisfying results. Give little tasks to perform at home early. Provide enough sports to work off the excessive energy that is in this nature and to teach fair play and sportsmanship. An ideal chart for the troubleshooter, the professional fighter, etc.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The custom of decorating small evergreen trees is said to have been originated by Martin Luther following his viewing of stars shining above an evergreen tree on Christmas eve. The World Almanac recalls that the custom of decorating Christmas trees with lights, sweets and colored paper was observed by early German settlers in Pennsylvania.

Laird Finally Attacks Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — It took Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird only two weeks into this presidential-campaign year to climb off his nonpolitical perch.

Laird has been giving the impression for some time that he would stay above the political battle in 1972. That's been the traditional stance of secretaries of Defense and State.

But there were skeptics who knew of Laird's unabashed love of politics, his zest for partisan cut-and-thrust while a GOP leader in Congress and a top strategist in past Republican presidential campaigns.

So there was little surprise Thursday when Laird took out after Sens. Edmund Muskie of Maine, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and other Democratic presidential hopefuls who have been demanding that President Nixon withdraw all American troops from Vietnam by a fixed date, and soon.

"When we took office in 1969 there was no program to withdraw American forces from Vietnam," Laird told White House reporters.

"Strangely enough, some of those individuals that are going around the country today criticizing programs to withdrawing the enemy and not helping our prisoners of war" by saying the U.S. prisoners would be released by the North Vietnamese if the United States offered to pull out all its troops.

Although Laird mentioned neither Muskie nor Humphrey by name, it was clear he meant them.

"I only have to refer to the last campaign," Laird said. "There were two individuals in that campaign."

Humphrey was the unsuccessful Democratic presidential candidate against Nixon in 1968, and Muskie was Humphrey's running mate.

Laird's assault drew no comment from Humphrey, who was campaigning in Florida, nor from Muskie, in New Hampshire.

Laird associates indicated the Defense secretary will get into the campaign in the role of defending the administration's program, which has involved a gradual withdrawal of U.S. troops and the concurrent buildup of the South Vietnamese forces to defend themselves.

A Laird aide said it is unlikely the secretary will make any outright partisan speeches but that "I wouldn't be surprised if he accepted speaking invitations from former congressional colleagues."

Missile Sites Moved By North Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam stepped up its challenge to U.S. air superiority in Indochina today by moving mobile surface-to-air missile launchers to within a few miles of the demilitarized zone, threatening American planes flying across South Vietnam.

Two new aerial engagements were reported near South Vietnam's borders. In one, an F105 fighter escorting Navy bombers fired a Shrike missile at a missile launching site this morning within three miles of the coast just above the DMZ. The U.S. Command said it was believed that the SAM site was destroyed.

It was the closest air action to South Vietnam's borders in nearly a year and the sixth so-called protective reaction strike inside North Vietnam this year.

U.S. military sources said the North Vietnamese apparently are trying to harass American planes as they cross the northern part of South Vietnam to attack the supply trails in Laos.

In the second incident, an Air Force OV10 observation plane directing air strikes against the Mo Chi Minh Trail in southern Laos was the target of an enemy missile while over the area of Sepone, 25 miles west of the Vietnamese borders. The pilot evaded the missile.

The South Vietnamese suffered their worst setback in through an overcast," the U.S. Command said, and the pilots were unable to pinpoint the launching site for a retaliatory attack.

In the ground war, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces kept up their intensified attacks on South Vietnamese outposts for the fourth day.

The South Vietnamese command reported 24 more enemy attacks for a four-day total of 110, the highest in more than three months. Most of the action was in the central highlands, on the central coastal plain and in the Mekong Delta.

In northern Laos, North Vietnamese troops overran two more minor positions within five miles of Long Cheng, the former U.S. Central Intelligence Agency base.

Progovernment irregulars reportedly recaptured the isolated outpost of Phou Cum, 25 miles north of the Plain of Jars, after meeting only token resistance. Phou Cum fell to the North Vietnamese last Monday.

Group Asks Nixon Censure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Women's Strike for Peace today urged Congress to censure President Nixon for his Vietnam policies, and announced plans to demonstrate at the Capitol to back its demand when Congress returns Tuesday.

A formal resolution calling for the censure was to be introduced Tuesday in the House by Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., charging that Nixon's refusal to withdraw all U.S. troops from Vietnam immediately and the brief, but intensified bombing of North Vietnam constituted grounds for censure.

A similar effort to censure Nixon was made on May 7, 1970 for ordering U.S. troops into Cambodia. That censure resolution, sponsored by Reps. Richard Ottinger, D-N.Y., died when the House Foreign Affairs Committee refused to act on it.

Observers said the new move faces the same fate. Even if it did pass both houses of Congress, it would amount to little more than a slap on the wrist—embarrassing but legally meaningless.

The censure resolution has no greater priority for consideration than any other ordinary bill introduced in the House since the Constitution provides that only a resolution to censure a member of Congress has high privilege, meaning it can be called up for a House vote by its sponsor after an appropriate length of time.

Censure of the President, however, would require some committee action to report the measure to the floor, or the signing by a majority—217—of the members of a petition to discharge the measure from the committee for a floor vote.

Edith Villalobos, a Washington member of the Women's Strike for Peace, told UPI her group hoped to bring several hundred of its members to the city Tuesday to coincide with Mrs. Abzug's introduction of the resolution.

"We hope to pack the (visitors') galleries and be on hand when Bella introduces the resolution," she said. Members from New York and Philadelphia and the entire "Eastern Seaboard" were expected, she added.

Kennedy Out as Delegate

By The Associated Press

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, consistently mentioned as a presidential possibility despite his denials of White House aspirations, says he will not be a delegate to the Democratic National Convention this summer but will be active at the session.

In a surprise development Thursday night, Kennedy said in Boston he felt it would be misleading if he headed a slate of his state's delegates to the national convention in Miami. He said people might think it was to "serve some other purpose."

It had been expected that Kennedy would head Massachusetts' at-large convention delegate slate.

The senator filed an affidavit disavowing his candidacy, a move necessary to remove his name from the April 25 Massachusetts presidential primary ballot.

However, Kennedy said he expects to be "active over the period of the next several weeks and months and at the convention."

As candidates and noncandidates scrambled around many of the nation's 23 primary-election states—either entering or withdrawing their names—others carried on their politicking unabashedly.

Democrat George Wallace ran head into party stalwart Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey after launching what the Alabama governor called a people's campaign in the Florida presidential primary.

"I defeated Wallace in this state in 1968 and hope to do as well again," Humphrey, of Minnesota, told a Jacksonville audience Thursday while pushing his own campaign for the state's March 14 contest.

A dozen candidates are listed on the Florida primary ballot.

Meanwhile, Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana accused the news media of slighting his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination. "I'm only an underdog with you people," Hartke said at a New York news conference. He predicted he will win the New Hampshire primary.

On a three-day campaign swing through Wisconsin, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington maintained he offers the best hope of luring disenchanted Democrats back into the fold and of defeating President Nixon in November. Jackson is expected to compete for Wisconsin's national convention delegates in a crowded Democratic field.

Speaking at Iowa State University at Ames, Democratic hopeful Sen. George McGovern advocated broad reform in the "entire tax structure" to redistribute income to every man, woman and child in the nation. The South Dakotan plugged for a program of tax-and-welfare reform.

In Boston, New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, the Republican-turned-Democrat, announced he will enter the Massachusetts Democratic presidential primary. He already had announced he will enter the Florida and Wisconsin primaries.

Also, in Boston, former Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota said he might support Lindsay or McGovern for president—if "they show strength."

McCarthy added to a student meeting that he wants to examine their statements on domestic policy.

Kennedy said while making his announcement that he intends to campaign vigorously for the Democratic nominee, and added he agrees with polls showing the Democratic front-runner is Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

Death Is Near For Monarch

COPENHAGEN (UPI)—Doctors said today death is only hours away for King Frederik IX, Denmark's popular monarch who has ruled for almost 25 years.

Frederik, 72, slipped into a coma Thursday, several days after he suffered a relapse and his condition began to worsen steadily.

Sources close to the royal family said doctors at the Municipal Hospital, where the king has been treated in a ground-floor room since he suffered a heart attack Jan. 3, told family members it was a question of hours, not days, before the king died.

The entire royal family was summoned to the hospital at mid-morning.

"His majesty, the king, is deeply unconscious. The blood pressure is dropping and the condition is extremely serious," a medical bulletin said today.

Frederik's Swedish-born wife, Ingrid, and their three daughters gathered in the official residence, Amalienborg Palace, in between visits to the king's flower-filled hospital room.

Queen Ingrid visited the king three times Thursday.

The king's two younger daughters—Queen Anne-Marie, 25, and Princess Benedikte, 27—visited the hospital early in the day accompanied by their husbands, exiled King Constantine of Greece and Prince Richard.

Princess Margrethe, 31, heir to the throne and Frederik's eldest daughter, visited the king with her husband, Prince Henrik, just before dinner and stayed for 30 minutes.
